MR. CANNON'S VIEWS

WHAT HE THINKS REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS WILL DO.

Cleveland Reigns-An Optimistic Montana Silverite.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 .- Representative Joseph G. Cannon ("Uncle Joe"), of Danville, Ill., has arrived for the session. He brings the Henderson campaign for Clerk of the House with him, and his responsibility for the candidacy of Mr. Henderson means that It will be a hustling one and that Mr. Henderson will get a run for his money. The recent tidal wave Mr. Cannon ascribes to general dissatisfaction with the present administration and its conduct of public affairs. "The people have given the Democrats a fair trial," says he, "and they are dissatisfied with them from every point who is, in my judgment, the ablest man in the Democratic party, the man who did more in the last Congress than any other man to save his party from destruction, was utterly unable to stem the tide of popuwas utterly unable to stem the tide of popular disapproval."

from the next Congress. "What is there gress. that Congress can do under the present conditions?" he said. "With a Republican House, a Senate controlled by neither party, and a President whose economic policies are antagonistic to the Republicans, there is no hope of legislation. In my judg- by China to the world's trade-namely, ment, the Republicans of this Congress will pass the appropriation bills and do that business which is indispensable for Congress and will wait until they have the power to legislate before attempting to put their olicy into execution. In my judgment, the epublicans will control both branches of March, 1897, after the inauguration of the Republican President, Congress will be called in extra session, and that within four months there will be enacted legislation which will provide a sufficient revenue for the government and put in force those eco-nomic policies which all Republicans believe in and which have the indorsement

Representative Hartman, of Montana, has also come here to stay. Mr. Hartman expresses some views which are of interest as illustrating how completely the profes-sional silver men like himself and Mr. Bland are blinded to the very events before their eyes. Mr. Hartman does not concede that the defeat of Wat Hardin and the Democratic ticket in Kentucky is a repudiation of free silver by the people of that State. "I cannot see," says he, "that the financial question has been affected one way or the other by the elections. I give no credit whatever to the talk that the trend of opinion is now away from silver.' And this in the face of the results in the Eighteenth Illinois district, where a district that has always been conceded to the Democrats went Republican by three thousand majority when the silver question was the one and only issue. Mr. Hartman still looks to Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, as the candidate of the free-silver men in 1896. Gen. Fitz Hugh Lee takes a diametrically opposite view of the current of public opin-ion on silver. "In my State," said he to-day, "the tendency of public opinion is toward sound currency. No one need hope to nominate any other than a sound-money man for the presidency at the national convention, and I do not fear that any effort will be made to do so."

As better and cheaper communica-tion builds up trade, Mr. Jernigan argues that the cutting of the Nicaragua canal would greatly benefit American commerce with the east and with an American bank in China and an American journal published there the commercial prosperity of the United States would be great.

Morgan Criticised by Salisbury. LONDON, Nov. 13 .- The correspondence of the British government with Sir Julian Pauncefote, British embassador to the United States, on the question of the Bering sea compensation, from May, 1894, to August, 1894, was issued to-night. In the last letter, dated Aug. 31, Lord Salisbury, the Prime Minister, inclosed a lengthy memorandum, setting out at greater length some of the points supporting the British claim. He writes Pauncefote: "The arguments you advance to support our claims have the en-tire approval and concurrence of the gov-ernment. The attempt made by Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, chairman of the United States Senate committee on foreign relations, to dispute them, seems largelar disapproval."

Arrival at San Francisco of Minister Hatch-Ex-Queen Liliuokalani III.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13 .- The Occidental and Oriental steamship Coptic, Captain Lindsay, arrived here last night from the Orient and Hawaii. Among her passengers from the latter place was A. T. Hatch, late Minister of Foreign Affairs of the island republic and recently appointed Hawaiian minister to the United States to succeed Minister Thurston. The Coptic was a recent caller at the ports that quarantine officials call infected and it will be late this morning before she will dock. Mr. gers, was compelled to remain on board the meet his late chief and the two had a long all night. Mr. Hatch did not have much to report. All of the exiles, with a few exceptions, have been pardoned, and many of them are returning to this country, late steamers bringing several. Ex-Queen Liliuokalani had been ill, it was reported, but her sickness was not regarded as being serious. The cholera had disappeared, but its lesson remained. The drainage of Hono-lulu has been made almost perfect, creeks have been walled up to stop overflowing and swamps have been cleaned out. Busi-ness was badly depressed by the cholera. but with the removal of the quarantine embargo it was improving. The situation as to the government is said to be absolutely unchanged. MAGNATES AT PEACE

NO ROW HAS YET DEVELOPED IN THE NATIONAL BALL LEAGUE.

Championship Awarded to Ealtimore -Protest from Ward-Hamilton Traded for Nash-Other Sports.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 .- The first day's session of the magnates representing the twelve clubs comprising the National Baseball League is over and no revolutionary moves have been made. For the past few days it has been rumored that when the presidents of the several clubs met there would be a wordy war and a great deal of wing clipping, particularly between two very prominent Eastern representatives. Everything so far has passed off very amicably and when the delegates adjourned this evening to meet again to-morrow forenoon they all seemed to be on the best of terms with each other.

Early in the day there were conflicting rumors as to the formation of the "Big Four." Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and New York were said to have combined to make things exceedingly interesting for the other eight cities represented in the National League and their chief object was the abolition of Sunday playing. Added to this, it is said that the quartet would insist on the adoption of the double umpire system. President A. J. Reach, of the Philadelphia club, denied most emphatically that he or any other one representing the Philadelphia club had entered into a "combine," and that the first intimation he had of such a thing reached him through this morning's newspapers.

The board of directors of the National League began business at 11 o'clock and handled a good deal of matter during their session. Ex-Capt. John J. Ward requested them to have his name erased from the reserve list of the New York Baseball club, claiming that, under the rules, a contract should have been proffered to him at the close of the season of 1894 and as this was not done he asserted that this omission released him. Furthermore, he claimed that the keeping of his name on the list injured him in his profession as a lawyer, as it would lead persons to suppose that he had not retired permanently from that he had not retired permanently from over in order that the further testimony in regard to the matter. claim for remuneration in the well-known Pitcher McFarland case, but after due de-liberation, the board decided that McFar-land rightly belonged to Cincinnati, and that the St. Louis president's claim should The board of directors got through their business shortly after 2 o'clock and the regular meeting of the league dld not convene until 4 o'clock. Among those who were in attendance were President and Secretary N. E. Young; President Freed-man, of New York; A. H. Soden, of Boston; H. R. Von der Horst, of Baltimore; Messrs. Wagner, of Washington; C. Byrne, of Brooklyn; J. I. Rogers, of Philadelphia; W. W. Kerr, of Pittsburg; F. De H. Robison, of Cleveland; James A. Hart, of Chicago; John T. Brush, of the Cincinnati club, and Chris Von der Ahe, of St. Louis. These gentlemen remained in session for over two hours and then adjourned until to-mor-After the meeting Secretary Young said the only business transacted was the formal awarding of the championship to Baltimore and the reading of the treasurer's report which was accepted. Resolutions in reference to the late chief umpire, Harry Wright, were laid over until to-morrow and the question of the remission of fines was also laid over. Section 2, Paragraph 1, was altered so that the words in the third line "for the future" were stricken During the day there was a large attendance of National League umpires who were ceived at the hands of the players during the past and previous seasons. This is a move made by the delegates so as to enforce stricter regulations for the protection of umpires against obstructive and abusive players.

The Eastern League was represented very largely and Jim Manning, of Kansas was on hand representing the West-League in order to have the Eastern of all claims and differences arising in the minor clubs. President Powers, of the Eastern League, said this afternoon that the matter would be more fully considered at their meeting in December next and their claims would be laid before the national board next yar.

Among the prominent managers who were looking for good exchanges and constantly talking to the many players who Ned Hanlon, "Buck" Ewing and "Connie" Mack. Arthur Irwin was very anxious to secure Nash from the Bostons, but President Freedman and he delayed a little too long in coming to terms as the Philadel-phias traded Billy Hamilton, the outfielder for Boston's third baseman. Hamilton will take McCarthy's place in the outfield for the "Beancaters," and Nash will play third and captain the Philadelphia team. The Yorkers made several attempts, unsuccess-fully to trade Doyle off for a good player and a consideration, among those named being Latham, of Cincinnati, and Cooley,

JUDGE ALLEN G, THURMAN NOW

EIGHTY-TWO TEARS OLD,

The affliction and expressed hopes for his speedy recovery. Judge Thurman was much affected when he received the kind remembrance of the club.

Judge Thurman's Career.

"The Old Roman," as Thurman is reverently and affectionately styled by his political admirers, was born in Lynchburg, Va., clergyman and a slave owner, but became early in life impressed with sentiments against slavery. He removed with his family to Chillicothe, O., in 1812, where he secured employment as a school teacher, and his son became one of his pupils. Later young Allen attended the Chillicothe High School, and afterward was a student in the academy of that town. He was proficient in all his studies, but especially advanced in mathematics, on which account he was known among his school fellows as "rightingled, triangled Thurman." His mother was the half sister of William Allen, who during his life served in the House of Rep-1848 refused the Democratic presidential committed to the support of Gen. Lewis Cass, who was subsequently nominated by the convention and defeated. Mrs. Thurman was a woman of remarkable ability and learning, and did much toward the instruction of her son and the guidance of his At the age of eighteen young Thurman attached himself to a land surveying corps and thoroughly mastered the mathematical side of that science during the three years he pursued it. In 1834, just when he had attained the age to qualify, Governor Lucas tendered him the office of private secretary, which he accepted, entering at the same time as a student at law in the office of his uncle, William Alien, completing his studies subsequently in the office of the afterward distinguished Judge Swayne. After his admission to the bar young Thurman returned to Chillicothe and entered into partnership with his uncle, with the Charley Webber, Hayes, and the most exciting campaign Sunburst, Myrtelle and Minnie D'Or also in the history of the State followed, the result being the election of Hayes by a majortiy of three thousand, a falling off of nearly forty thousand from the customary majority of his party. The Legislature elected at the same vote being Democratic, however. Thurman was chosen United States Senator to take the place of Benjamin F. Wade and he took his seat March 4, 1869, there being at the time only seven Democrats in the body. His ability was at once recognized, his speeches on the Geneva award bill and on the Pacific railway funding bill especially attracting public notice and applause. He served two terms in the Senate with great distinction and honor, closing the twelve years' period on March 4, 1881, with a reputation which stood among the highest for judicial fairness, dignity and strength in debate, especially on questions on constitutional law and for patriotism and probity.

During his senatorial labors Judge Thurman served on the judiciary committee, of which he was for a time chairman, and pore, and in the exercise of the duties of Judge Thurman returned to his home in Columbus, and resumed the practice of law, though he pursued it in a somewhat desulthe gratification of his taste for literature. Being consitutionally opposed to monopoly he gave a good deal of attention to the litigation then pending over the Bell telephone patents as counsel for the opposite inter-ests. In the Democratic national convention of 1888 he was nominated for Vice President, much against his inclination, accepted the burden and made the fight which resuited in his defeat. Since that he has een living quietly with his family, attending to no business that he could escape and ulging to the full measure his omnivorous appetite for reading, not the ponderous works of law and philosophy, but the light literature of the period, including French ovels, which he reads in the original wealthy merchant and land owner in Chillicothe, O., and a native of the place, born in 1811. One of his nephews, Edwin Dun, is now United States minister in Japan, and another, R. G. Dun, is the famous commercial agent in New York. Mrs. Thurman died two years ago, slace which time the

We must first learn to distinguish between the selling of intoxicants and the keeping of a tippling house or place of public drinking. The former is as legitimate as the selling of dry goods or groceries, and in the not very remote future the prolific parent of most of them; besides, it affects the morals and lives of its vicims, while they affect only the material nterests of society.

the excise, the tax on the saloon, or, as we all it here, the license fee, is all wrong. If keeping a tippling house is mischievous, no excise, or tax, or license fee can sanctify it, and the higher the excise, or tax, or fee the greater the wrong, both to the seller and the community. The plea that saloons should bear the burdens they impose on society is specious. The pecuniary burdens are nothing compared with the meral ruin they entail; hence the excise or tax serves only to protect the saloon. For four hundred years we have been trying to make the saloon bearable by various modifications of license laws, but every form has proved a failure. When, forty years ago, there was a clamor for prohibition as the only panacea, that proved a failure be-cause it falled to recognize the legitimate mus too much that gave color to the allega-tion that it was an attempt to make men moral by law, though that was not the in-tention of the movement. It was needlessly extreme in its provisions, but the unscrupu-lous defiance of all law by the saloon is largely responsible for this.

A wholesome reaction has set in. In Indiana the unparalleled popularity of the Nicholson law indicates this. That law at-Nicholson law indicates this. That law attempts nothing unreasonable. It recognizes the legitimacy of saloons under certain restrictions, and it will likely abide unless the hostility of the saloon makes a more stringent law unavoidable. Its repeal or emasculation will be followed probably by a modification of the Doane model—no tax whatever, but the classifying of saloon keeping with felonies, with no license required, except such as we require of one who handles powder or other dangerous articles of commerce, Let us do away with all license fees and place tippling houses all license fees and place tippling houses with gambling houses, and we will have with gambling houses, and we will have about all the protection that law can give Bishop Doane is right, and within the next fifty years all the present tentative laws will give way to his ideal with such modifications as experience may suggest.

Ex-Congressman Wemple Arrested on the Charge of Incendiarism.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 13.-Edward Wemple, ex-State Senator, ex-Congressman and ex-State Controller, was arrested at his home in Fultonville to-day on the charge of attempting to set fire to the residence of Hubert H. Fonda, in Fultonville, on the evening of Nov 10. A basket filled with shavings saturated with kerosene oil was placed against a rear door and set on fire charged with having set fire to the Wemple foundry, which was burned a month ago and with causing other incendiary fires in Fultonville. He spent a fortune in politics and contracted habits which led to his downfall. He took treatment for dypsomania, but failed to derive benefit. His riends claim that his strange actions are due to his being nentally unbalanced.

The Delta Kappa Epsilon Society. SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 13 .- The fortyfirst annual convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity opened in this city this adding that Bishop Doane's views on the question are novel, demands more than the passing attention usually given to telegraphic accounts of such utterances, for, deliver an oration and a poem will be read by Prof. J. Scott Clark, of North-western University. Business sessions will follow on Friday and on Friday evening a banquet will be held.
